

Transition

Sometimes God brings times of transition to create transformation. Not my quote.

Some things that are different from Slovakia:

Alligators	Many healthy churches	No mountains
The heat	Kids riding the school bus	Driving everywhere
Office life	Kilwin's ice cream	Hurricane Irma

Olivia & Boone's first time on a school bus.

James in the empty ice cream bucket.

We are transitioning from Slovakia in many different ways. It is hard, fun, emotional, tiring, and adventurous. We are communicating more as a family to process the transition and looking for new ways to enjoy this culture. Therefore I bought a used bike and a surfboard. We have also decided to put Olivia, Boone, and Eli in school this year and they are taking the bus. Orlando has many lakes but you cannot swim in them because of alligators. My sister, Ashley, gave us 3 gallons of Kilwin's ice cream which we ate in about 4 weeks. I love American ice cream. Hurricane Irma encouraged us to visit my parents and it was great to only have a 9 hour car ride to visit them. Much cheaper than plane tickets. But we are missing many things about Slovakia.

I am working for Jesus Film Project. Even though I am not much of an office person, it is pretty amazing work these guys are doing. Billy Graham said, "The Jesus Film is one of the most powerful tools God has given us to proclaim the gospel." Try to think about living remotely in a people group that that is illiterate and has never seen a movie in their language. Then comes a Jesus Film person with a movie for your people in your language with the greatest life giving story ever! I am part of the social media/communications team which helps connect believers and unbelievers with our films. One of my recent projects has been making QR codes that link to the Jesus Film to put in Bibles in Egypt.

Prayer Requests

- Transition. Continued prayer to continue learning this new environment.
- Relationships. Continued prayer for our whole family to make good friendships here and to find a local church body.
